THE ETHICS OF JOURNALISM.

We are advised in print to follow an obsolete and an unsatisfactory rule of journalism. That is to say, this paper has been told, when it obtains a desirable and interesting piece of news, to "submit" it to those whose names are mentioned or whose interests are concerned, leaving them to decide by their private preference what shall see print and what shall be marked out. A faithful observance of this tenet would, we do not doubt, make a daily newspaper about as instructive to the public as a passing summer cloud. Such a "journal" would have little news of any virile sort, and would publish, in most cases, not what had happened, but what certain people would like to have others think had taken place; or would fail to publish those significant things which news-makers always wish to conceal, but are the points in which the people are interested. There was very much of this sort of journalism in Honolulu before the STAR stirred things up and there is much less now—a fact which accounts for the improved reputation of the whole press as a news-gathering agency. In times to come, when annexation shall do its perfect work in making Honolulu a modern city, we shall expect the Hawaiian papers to tell what is going on with the intent of absolute fidelity, suppressing nothing valuable, "submitting" the news to no revisor but their own professional instinct, and taking care that the history of the times shall be written with as much accuracy as may be permitted by the usual conflict in the minds of witnesses and the everlasting desire of some part of the public to suppress or make over the reports which personally concern itself.

For those who wish the press to say nothing of their affairs, when such affairs are of public moment, there is but one safe rule. It is to keep still about them, and then the papers may hear and see nothing. The moment, however, that such things get out into the gossip of the street they become the fair prey of the reporter, whose journal is under an implied contract to tell its readers all that is going on in the legitimate fields of business, society, politics, daily life and even of diplomacy.

By obeying this rule of enterprise and accuracy, according to its opportunities and lights, a newspaper becomes worth reading. On the other hand, by "submitting" public news to private suppression, it shows itself to be incompetent and untrustworthy, and deserves the fate that always comes to it.

The days and weeks go by and not one of the New York Herald's Hawaiian prophecies have been verified. In fact, the men who inspired them here and induced a senile and depraved commentator to put them into print no longer believe they will come to pass and possibly never did. Far from being in a state of financial and political collapse, we possess a growing credit and a stronger Government. Instead of taxes having been refused, they are being paid by Royalists and Annexationists alike. Conspiracies are wholly out of fashion and nobody is anxious to wage on the restoration of the throne. On all the islands of the group, upon which the Herald assured its readers would be civil war ere this, is profound peace and a common obedience to law. The gorgons and chimeras dire that Mr. Bennett was about to see loosed upon us appear to be like the animals he set free in Central Park—the creatures of his own delirious sensationalism, as little real as the blue toads and green monkeys of a methyl spree.

YESTERDAY the STAR said, on good authority, that Hon. P. C. Jones had sold, for the Reciprocity Sugar Company, $75,000 worth of bonds, the proceeds of which would be used to pay off Claus Spreckels. This morning Mr. Jones printed a card in which he undertook to prove the statement "unkind and untrue," by reciting the fact that he had, as financial agent of the sugar company, enjoyed pleasant interviews with W. G. Irwin, in which the latter had made him a liberal offer for the settlement of the Reciprocity debt. As the integrity of the STAR's paragraph is not affected by these facts, we fail to see why Mr. Jones should have rushed into print with a denial, unless he wished to please Messrs. Spreckels and Irwin at the expense of this paper—a course which hardly accords with his habitual courtesy and fairness in private life.

We hope the Council will do something to protect the editorial fraternity in this city from malicious prosecution. While the STAR prefers the establishment of the grand jury on something like the American plan, it does not hold to that idea as a finality. There may be other ways to reach an approximate result, such as laws to inflict penalties upon the plaintiff in criminal libel suits which may be dismissed on a verdict of causeless action. That would be at least a mitigating statute. As the case stands, an editor may take issue with a public enemy to-day in behalf of law, order and the welfare of the Provisional Government and find himself arrested to-morrow at the mere instance of the exposed rascal and arraigned in Court with the Provisional Government as his prosecutor. Queer sort of justice that in a civilized community!

MR. SPRECKELS has transferred his Hawaiian property to his sons and daughter, and it is reported that he will drop Island politics and attend hereafter to the great business enterprises which he has on hand in the United States. This decision, if it has been arrived at, will restore in the public mind that respect for the Sugar King's sagacity which was impaired by his taurine-like campaign upon this group. It will serve to show that Claus is himself again—no longer a bull in a china shop, but a long-headed, stubbed old mountain lion of finance, who knows where the grassy pastures are, is acquainted with the secure retreats, and means to thrive happily out of hara's way.

MR. DILLINGHAM deserves much credit for the tireless way in which he prosecutes his plans for extending the Oahu road. An ordinary promoter and financier who had spent between one and two years abroad in a resultless quest for aid might think it worth while to sit down and wait for better times. Not so Mr. Dillingham! He waits for nothing, and if any way can be found to push his road around the Island he may be trusted to discover it.

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of C. R. Bishop & Co's Bank finds that institution in the heyday of success. Time brought vicissitudes to the firm, but none that proved embarrassing to it; and to-day the bank stands without a rival in public confidence and esteem. It is to the business of Honolulu what the Chemical bank is to the financial operations of New York—a position which is due to management of a peculiarly sagacious kind.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

The Foreign Jury Buckles Down to Business.

In the Circuit Court yesterday much of the time of the court and a foreign jury was occupied with the case of Pon Gin, alias Pun Chun, charged with perjury. General Hartwell appeared for the prosecution and Charles Creighton for the defense. During the afternoon the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

The next case taken up was that of Ah Fo, for the unlawful possession of opium. In this case a verdict of not guilty was also rendered.

In the case of Lam Kow, charged with selling liquor without a license, a verdict of guilty was brought in. This is a case that has been before the court for some time. The defendant was remanded for sentence.

In the case of Ah Lun and Ah Keong the former pleaded guilty this morning to gambling at che fa, and a nolle prosequi was entered for the latter.

Ah Kwa pleaded guilty to the charge of having opium in his possession unlawfully and was remanded.

In case No. 50, in which Ah Sing appealed from the decision of the District Court finding him guilty of selling liquor without a license, the appeal was withdrawn and the fine of $50 paid, with $5 for costs.

In the case of the Provisional Government against Ah Tai, Ah Hui and Chow Yee, on appeal from a conviction for assault and battery, the former pleaded guilty and the two others are on trial before Judge Whiting and a jury as the STAR goes to press.

Aim at the Drake

And you are bound to hit some of the ducks. This is precisely the same with

Wampole's Tasteless Preparation

OF

Cod Liver Oil.

It aims to cure Consumption, Hits the Mark, too, and it most effectually breaks up Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat and Lung troubles that cause this disease.

It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

But the purest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is there all the same. It is a great blood enricher. Best of all it is a natural food that in its stomachic effects, actually assists its own assimilation.

In Pulmonary or Bronchial troubles it is unequalled. No one doubts the value of Cod Liver Oil, but not every one is able to take it.

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION removes the nauseous objection and actually makes Cod Liver Oil palatable.
